Winds Of Change

Great Changes?! From lost and found box to lost and found CAN!

New and improved? ASSIGNED LOCKERS?!

The newly founded Mill River Football Club shows off at school. Old relationships with a new twist.

... Winds of Change?!

Yes! This yearbook commemorates all of the different things that have or are currently happening to us right now. It is like a freshly raked pile of autumn leaves—a potpourri of magnificently colored leaves that have fallen from different trees. And like the leaves of the trees that change with the later summer days, so do we change when we begin a new school year. Like the leaves, we all have different characteristics and by being in school we are “piled” together with other unique leaves from different trees. Like the cycle of the changing seasons, runs the cycle of our lives with each year that passes; we start as fresh new buds each year, and as we get dry and crumbly toward the end, we are reborn to do it again. For some of us this year the cycle is a new experience, a new wind, whether it's starting seventh grade or transferring from another school. For others of us our new wind will come soon when our cycles will take place in new environments and our lives, our tree, our “trunk” of existence will have to adapt to the changes ... So, from old to new, seventh grade to twelfth, old classes to new, changes in individual attitudes and school policy, this yearbook is rightly called “Winds of Change” because each of us, leaves, take different currents, and are blown together in this big pile of leaves which is our school life.

The new student parking lot.

The change of location of school store.

The changing of the seasons.

Mrs. Jarvis' change — having twins!

Brandys' change: Being SERIOUS?!

Classroom changes ... The new computer lab.

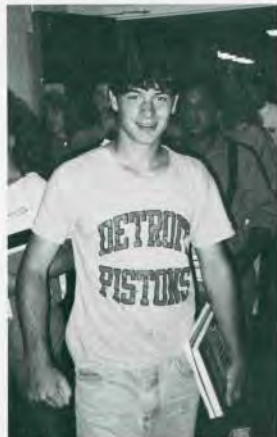

STUDENT LIFE

This yearbook was digitized by volunteers from the Rutland Historical Society and the Rutland Free Library.

First Day Of School

What does the first day of school mean to you? To seventh graders it means a new school, to others it means classrooms rearranged and changed. It leaves most students wondering, "Can they make these classrooms any smaller?" Mr. Towne describes the first day of school as, "Something new every year. It's always different. Something is always changing."

The first day of school is often accompanied by groans of frustration, and the creak of book bags loaded down with fifty pound History books.

Some teachers begin the year on a good note by gradually building up homework. Other, less understanding teachers, feel they need to give their students truck loads of homework on subjects they know nothing about. All in all, the first day of school gives you time to plot a way to escape from study hall.

Funky Footwork

A packed Gym full of sweaty bodies dancing the night away. That is how a dance at Mill River can be described. Once you pay at the door, get your hand stamped, and make your way through the cafeteria, the pleasant aroma of perspiration hits you in the face.

After your eyes adjust to the dark you will be able to see clumps of kids bopping around and maybe slam-dancing to the music. It won't take long before you can blend in with the crowd since most people are already dancing. Those who aren't dancing can either be found in the cafeteria munching on delicious food, in the bathroom crying, or on the bleachers. Now doesn't that sound like a good time?

Hangouts

Where do you hangout? Studies show that 9 in 10 people hangout in the cafeteria. The one person who wasn't in the cafeteria was probably in the hallway. If not in the hallway, she was probably in the library sleeping, or at their locker trying to locate a homework assignment that was supposedly done, right? Sure! The music and art rooms are for those of us that are into culture, clay, and snare drums. Yes, even teachers have hangouts (besides the teachers' room). They are often seen hanging out in the doorway between the cafeteria and the hallway. Maybe it's really a gathering of higher-alien life forms. Nah! So, if you've been hiding away in a dark corner, don't worry! The rest of us have been asleep in the library!

STAFFORD TECHNICAL CENTER

When you look forward to next year, a list of courses may run through your mind. Why not take an alternative course at the Stafford-Technical Center? Taking a course at the Stafford-Technical center gives you the skills to obtain a job beyond your high school education. The Stafford-Technical center offers hands-on experiences combined with theory as well as the chance to develop good work attitudes and habits.

The center is available for those students who have interest, the talent, the desire, and the potential to learn a skill.

A special note goes to S. Bowen for touring the photographers around the center. Thanks Stacey!

SCIENCE FAIR

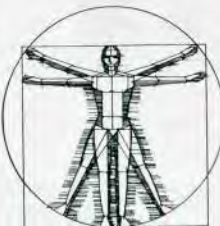

1992

The science fair - a time of year that about two thirds of the school dreads. It's the time of the year that evokes a lot of tension and stress among science students. They spend countless hours, usually in the early morning, preparing their displays to show on science fair night. Projects are displayed all over the school, the science and home economic areas, the cafeteria, and the resource center. Students nervously stand by their inventions and experiments awaiting their judges. Some students only have to wait a few minutes for both judges to arrive and others spend the entire evening anticipating the judges arrival. After the sciences fair scores are tabulated the awards, high honors, honors, and honorable mentions are given out. The science fair is an event Mill River Union High School should be proud of it is a night reflecting on hard work and innovative thoughts. Congratulations to all those students who participated this year!

STUDYING

Studying. What can we say? It causes stress and takes up hours of our time. Different types of studying are used by different students. One type of studying is called diligent studying. Diligent studying requires studying days, even weeks, before you have a test or quiz. This is the kind of studying practiced by the ultra-prepared student who wishes to achieve success in life.

Last minute studying, also called cramming, is probably the most widely used by most students. This type of preparation rarely helps you to do well on a test, especially if you only have five minutes to study six chapters.

Weary students who have spent all night studying, often ask themselves why they inflict so much torture and pressure on themselves. I think the dictionary sums it up best: to read in detail with the intention of learning.

FIELD TRIPS

Field Trips are said to be educational trips to expand your mind out of the class room. But as we all know, they are much more than that. You get to miss school for a day, with permission, and have fun, while perhaps, learning something along the way.

Sock It To Um'

This year the girls varsity soccer team had a challenging season. Each game was a battle against the odds to see which senior would become injured. Although heads, knees, and ankles were injured the team ended in the quarter finals at 500. The triumphs of the season were wins against Brattleboro and Springfield. Liz Kelly was named to the MVL Team.

Some of the teams accomplishments include: 3 top 10 placements at MVL's and 2 members elected to the MVL team, as well as Kevin Carpenter's 10th place finish at the states and respectable placement in the all New Englands. This small group ended the year as a team of veterans that are well prepare for next season's challenges.

WRESTLING

This year's wrestling team had a great season. Not only did they win the state championship but the wrestlers also traveled to the New England Championship. Senior heavyweight A. Auer had a great season as did senior team mates R. Richardson and K. Hooker. The Whitmer brothers and R. Foro were also key team members. The wrestling team finished the season at the winter sports banquet with the varsity team members receiving letter jackets for their championships.

This is a spirited group of young women with a inspiring coach. Once they get going there's no stopping them! Their virtually spotless record speaks for itself! These girls were so dedicated to winning and playing good solid basketball that they endured grueling practices including running suicides and intense coaching. This team is surely something to watch out for in the upcoming years.

This years Junior Varsity basketball team was very successful. With no returning members, the team was made up of 6 sophomores and 5 freshman. Despite injuries and illness the boys still manage to have a very good season. They provide a very exciting show before the varsity games. The guys will certainly add a lot of depth to next years varsity. GOOD LUCK GUYS!!

Leading the Way

Coaching, what can one say about a coach, dedication? LOTS!!!!!! Not only is the coach an educator, he or she also serves as a big buddy, a shoulder to cry on, and most of all a person to look up to. A coach never quits or just gives up, they believe in their team. They help to install pride, responsibility, and self esteem in our students. From all the maids and men at Mill River THANK YOU all for being there for all of us.

DRACULA

The Myth Returns

Lucy is left alone in her darkened bedroom. He creeps in through her window, seeking his target. Victorious cries echo from his lair of bats as his fangs pierce the flesh of her throat, stealing her blood and capturing her soul.

On November 7, 8, & 9, crowds came to see good acting combine with detailed technical work to recreate Bram Stoker's chilling story. Stage 40's successful version of Dracula took place in an 1890's sanitarium in England. The fight to save Lucy (Kendra Mueelling) is led by the specialist, Abraham Van Helsing (Eric Garland), her fiancé, John Harker (Seth Biederman), and her father, Dr. Seward (Stellan Grace). They piece together the clues to determine that their neighbor, Count Dracula (Jasson Lorentz), is the vampire. The maid (Kandis Decker) is enslaved by the count and Renfield (Charles Russo), is led to madness before Dracula perishes with a stake driven through his heart.

Such was the end of that fictitious nightmare. We have our own to conquer.

"There are such things ..."

What would a vampire be without his fangs? The success of Dracula could not have occurred without all these illusions. Research began the previous summer as the advisors and student designers had lot of planning ahead of them. Victorian rooms as well as the vampire's lair had to be created and the characters made to fit their surroundings.

Crews formed in the fall. There were as many as three techs a week (three hours a night), depending on the task. Some such as the props crew went to the acting rehearsals in order to get an idea of how their element would become a part of the play.

With all the set done, costumes fitted, make-up applied, light and sound cues fixed, performances awaited. Each performance required head set communication between the booth and backstage where a few attired in black took orders. There were set changes, cues, shards of delicious candy mirror to be swept up and the bat operated with the help of some fishline. Finally came four hours of strike and the show was dismantled.

CARNATION FEVER

It's the flower fairy

This years NHS group sold their annual Valentine's Day Carnations with countless heart wrenching service announcements by Mr. Harlow. Carnation sales were not as high as the members expected, but they went on. Carnations were separated, tagged, re-grouped into the different T-A's. The carnations were then delivered. But not without a smile!!

Who does that go to?

Flower sorting, what a wonderful pastime

PUBLICATIONS

This year a new class was introduced at Mill River: Publications. Publications is comprised of juniors and seniors. Scott Farnum, Todd Limlaw, Mike Blair, Jason McGahey, Shelbi Doperack, Jen Arnado, Brandy Blosser, Chris Sanderson, Grant Adams, Shelley Bufum, and Matt Andrisain work along with Mr. Jarvis and the Yearbook Staff to create division pages, make layouts, and write copy. Although their hours aren't as long as those kept by the Yearbook Staff, they make good use of the 45 minutes they have in class.

The class has been successful and is hoped to be so in the years to come.

Above: C. Sanderson & G. Adams briefly glance up from their work. J. Arnado and B. Blosser: working hard & hardly working. Above left: S. Farnum, T. Limlaw & M. Blair, 3 little workers all in row. Above right: M. Andrisain, J. McGahey, and Mr. Jarvis working hard to make the deadline.

The yearbook staff works long hours to bring to you a book filled with memories. Writing, pictures, and artwork all combine to create a book of Mill Rivers history. We are pleased to bring you a book that provides the "Winds of Change" for many of us. There are a many long meetings and late nights involved in putting a yearbook together, but we're sure you'll agree the exhausting process is with it for the end result.

The 1992 SPIRIT team would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who have taken photos, who attended meetings, and donated their time to make this book a success.

MATHCOUNTS

J. Wade, J. Chance, K. Robins, A. Anderson, D. LeBrecque, Z. Barker, S. Haynes

Mathcounts enjoyed another successful year at Mill River with over twenty participants from the seventh and eighth grades. Mr. Tucker met regularly with the returning eighth graders while Mr. Barker worked with the enthusiastic seventh graders. One highlight of the year was a practice meet in Fair Haven. Several Mill River mathcounts students had a chance to practice problem solving skills and to share strategies with students from Poultney and Fair Haven.

TEACHER OF THE YEAR

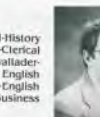

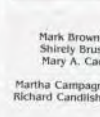

MICHAEL HARLOW

Mr. Michael Harlow was honored this year by the University of Vermont's Annual Outstanding Teacher of the Year award. Mike Harlow has taught English at Mill River for the past 17 years. As an educator, Mr. Harlow's innovative and interesting teaching styles make him one of Mill River's finest. The MRU community would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Mr. Harlow on a job well done.

MAINTENANCE AND BUS STAFF

We at Mill River rarely recognizes the tireless work put forth by this staff. Cleaning up after the students is usually a thankless task that must be done. The maintenance staff at Mill River does this job and does it extremely well. We the members of the Mill River community would like to commend the staff for a job well done.

8TH GRADE

The class of 1996 - no longer the youngest age group at Mill River - has now become familiar with their surroundings at Mill River allowing them to assist seventh graders with their troubles. The eighth grader class has been busy throughout the year in sports, musical performances, and Stage 20! Who knows what next year will bring...

9TH GRADE

Finally, Freshman!! Now that they have two years of experience under their belts, the ninth graders are ready to face the expectations of high school life. This hard working class deserves a lot of credit. In the midst of exams and all those other stressed out periods in between, they always manage to come out as winners.

11TH GRADE

Everybody should sympathize with those poor Juniors! After all, they've had a rough year. The pressures are too great to number: Votch, preparing for college, and PSAT's seem to top the list of their hardships. But never fear Juniors because next year comes the SAT's and actually applying to college. As experienced seniors we wish you the best of luck.

Holly R. and Amanda N., a couple of studying fools!
